

Maycrest Capital Names New Chief Compliance Officer

Maycrest Capital has been focusing on generating attractive risk-adjusted investment returns while keeping an eye on regulatory requirements.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. - July 3, 2018 - PRLog -- Maria Davis, Chief Operating Officer of Maycrest Capital, has taken on the additional responsibilities of Chief Compliance Officer (CCO) for the firm, effective July 2, 2018.

"Maycrest Capital has achieved attractive risk-adjusted investment returns for more than eleven years," said Richard Davis, the firm's Chief Executive Officer. "While it is tempting to focus on managing assets, and on refining and implementing investment strategies, we cannot forget that – like all investment advisors – we are subject to regulatory oversight."

"Maria leading all compliance-related matters will be of great benefit to the firm, its investors and partners," Davis added. "Before joining Maycrest Capital in 2017, Maria was an associate director with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB), overseeing certified public accountants registered with the PCAOB. With her background and experience Maria understands that compliance is of critical importance. She is a perfect match for the firm's needs."
